UNITED NATIONS
HEADQUARTERS, In Australia, April 21.—Spectacular new raids by American and Australian fliers on Japan's precariously-held bases north of Australia were announced by General Douglas MacArthur today in his first communique as accredited commander-in-chief of the southwest Pacific.

Japanese ships, airdromes, hangars and docks were blasted,
the communique said.

First Communique Issued a few hours after the basic organization of the southwest Pacific command had been completed with designation of the officers who will be members of MacArthur's staff, the communique embraced not only Australian operations but the Philippine situation as well.

General MacArthur's first statement also set a new style for communiquees.

It followed the "dateline" method used in cabled and telegraphed news dispatches and read as follows:

"Kororua: Our aircraft executed successful night reconnaissance combined with bombing attacks on Saipan airdromes.

Huge Siege Guns Now Used By Japs Against Corregidor

By JOSEPH A. BORS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The battle of Corregidor developed today into a vicious endurance contest between the outnumbered but unyielding forces of Lt. Gen.
Jonathan Wainwright and the numerically superior Japanese who are determinedly driving to dominate the Manila Bay area.

Appearance of Jap dive bombers and huge nine inch siege guns in the battle for Manila Bay indicated that the Nipponese intend to carry on with unrelenting fury the "non-stop" assault begun 13 days ago, but the beleaguered garrison continued to hold out valiantly.

While military experts admitted that the fortress would not be able to carry on indefinitely without reinforcement, they asserted that Corregidor and its companion forts were far from beaten and could hold out in proportion to their remaining food and munition supplies.

To Continue Onslaught

The fact that the Japanese now are using nine inch guns on both Bataan and Cavite indicated strongly that the enemy intends to continue its onslaught until the fort's guns are silenced or until the garrison finally is worn down.

To date, however, there has been

Nazis Increase Air Attacks Upon Leningrad Area

Ninety Planes Sent Into At-

Moscow Report

DEFENSES BREAK
UP FORMATIONS

Port Of Murmansk Also
Target For Heavy Air Attack Efforts By Nazis

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

MOSCOW, April 21.—Dispatches from the fighting areas disclosed today that Germany has undertaken intense air attacks along the entire Russian front, attempting particularly heavy raids against Leningrad and the Port of Murmansk.

The Nazis were reported to have sent 90 planes into an attack against besieged Leningrad, sending a squadron of 30 craft over the city in the first wave and double that number in a second assault.

Anti-aircraft guns and planes of the Soviet Baltic fleet air arm broke up the formations, it was said, and only a few of the German planes managed to reach Leningrad. Little damage was caused by the bombs which were dropped, it was reported.

In the extreme south, it was said,
18 Luftwaffe bombers raided a town in the Crimea peninsula. Eight of the attacking craft were reported brought down while the remainder fled.

Break Up Counter-Attacks

Red army ground forces meanwhile were said to be breaking up strong Nazi counter-attacks successfully and continuing their advances.
Guerrilla units were said to be ex-

Free French Mission Expected To Reach Washington Soon

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 21.—Responsible sources today disclosed that a Free French military mission will arrive in Washington shortly.

Primary purpose of the mission's visit will be to seek an increase in lend-lease war material aid to the Free French forces in Africa and the Near East.

However, the mission may participate in the discussions now underway between the United States and Great Britain concerning plans to counteract any attempt by the Laval government of France to recapture French territory in Syria and Africa now held by General De Gaulle's Free French forces.

U. S. Destroyer Breaks Record

Shown sliding down the ways at the Norfolk Va. Navy Yard, is the destroyer Shubrick that was launched in the record time of sixty days.
This was the fastest construction job on record for a ship of this size and design. The new destroyer was named for Rear Admiral William Brandford Shubrick, commandant of the Norfolk Navy Yard about 130 years ago.

Future Queen Of England Observes
Her 16th Birthday

Public Interest Is Shown In
"Coming Out" Ceremony
For Princess

(International News Service)
LONDON, April 21.—Britain's crack grenadier guards regiment will be entertained by its "Colonel-in-Chief" today and shortly thereafter, England will be introduced formally to the young lady who is destined to become its queen.

In other words, Princess Elizabeth, eldest daughter of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, observes her 16th birthday today by "coming out," and even history's greatest war has not stifled public interest in the event.

Extent of this interest was indicated yesterday when a reader of the London Daily Mail sent a letter to the editor suggesting that Elizabeth be named "Princess of Wales" by virtue of the same reasoning that a British king's eldest son usually is named "Prince of Wales."

Since King George and Queen
Elizabeth have no sons, the people of Wales would be "very delighted at the honor" if the princess were named for their country, the writer opined.

Indicative of the times is the fact that the princess today will first officially at an entertainment for the Grenadier Guards, of which she was named "Colonel-in-Chief" three weeks ago, before "coming out"
at a small dancing party.

Soon, she will be receiving coun-less invitations to major London social events, but because of the times the number she accepts will be limited, it was suggested. Possibly her appearances will be confined to officiating at charitable functions, close observers said.

Selectees To Be Honored Tonight

Parade And Entertainment Will Be Staged For De-

Local selectees who are going into the service this week, will be honored by the citizens of New Caston this evening, with Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion and New Castle Lodge of Elks collaborating in the program.

A parade will be staged with the selectees and World War veterans in line, starting from the Legion Home and ending at the Elks Club, where a brief program of address will be followed by dancing and a lunch.

CHUNGKING, April 21.—Fit and ready to fight again, 7,000 trapped British troops were rescued when Chinese forces in one of the bloodiest battles of the war recaptured the city of Yenangvaung and its surrounding oil fields, a Chinese military spokesman announced today.

The city was retaken on Sunday after bitter fighting, it was announced.

British tanks, taken by the Japanese along with the troops when their forces surged northward toward the oil fields of Burma, also were recaptured and presumably are in condition to be used again.

The Chinese and British still are in control of Yenangvaung and are combating a new Japanese attack three miles south of the city.

Chinese On Three Fronts

Chinese troops now are fighting on three major Burma battlefronts.
It was announced—the valleys of the Irrawaddy, Sittoung and Salween rivers. Chinese forces still are holding Pymman, although Japanese artillery is bombarding points to the north.

On the Salween front, the Chinese are holding back the enemy 40 miles

Lieut. O'Hare Is Given High Honor

Given Congressional Medal Of Honor By President At Washington

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Roosevelt today decorated Lieut. Edward H. O'Hare with the Congressional Medal of Honor for "one of the most daring, if not the most daring single action in the history of combat aviation"—performed when he knocked out five, and possibly six Jap planes in a raid off the Gilbert Islands on February 20.

Local Recruiter Elated

Informed that Edward H. (Butch)
O'Hare this morning had been presented with the Congressional medal of honor and that he had also been elevated from a lieutenant junior grade to lieutenant commander, D.
C. Ritchie, officer in charge of the Navy's recruiting station here, said:

"It couldn't have happened to a nicer all around fellow. Their personal satisfaction and feeling in O'Hare's gallant achievements in the Pacific war."

Continuing, Ritchie said:

"I served two years with O'Hare back in 1938. He was my superior division officer on the U. S. S. New Mexico. Then in 1938, he was assigned to aviation training. I am elated to learn that he has been decorated and promoted. He deserves every honor bestowed upon him."

Approximately 8,000,000 others will be shifted from present peacetime jobs to war jobs, McNutt estimated that out of the 13,000,000 total, about 2,000,000 men would be called into the armed forces. That still will leave war industries short of about 2,000,000 workers. Officials

British Girl In Armed Service Killed In Action

Struck By Bomb Splinter
While On Duty—Britains
Vow Vengeance

(International News Service)
LONDON, April 21.—Grim crews of Britain's south coastal anti-aircraft batteries today vowed revenge on the German Luftwaffe for the death of 18-year-old Private Nora Caveney, the first girl to be killed in action with the British armed services.

Miss Caveney, who left her job
as a silk factory worker five months ago to join the Auxiliary Territorial Service as a predictor for anti-aircraft units, was buried yesterday with full military honors after being killed by a bomb splinter while on duty at her post last Friday night.

She was guiding the anti-aircraft batteries in firing their second salvo at the Nazi war birds when a bomb fell nearby and a splinter fatally injured her.

Officers praised her courage in remaining at her post during an intense bombing until she was felled by the splinter, pointing out that it was her first engagement with the enemy.

of its capacity—from 20 to 50 per-

Two separate orders were issued directing all cotton mills to convert looms now producing a long list of fabrics commonly used in clothing and in the home to production of bag osanburg and bag sheeting, needed for sand bags, camouflage

Republican Party Is Now Committed To New Policies

Willkie Ideas Largely Adopted
In Action Of G. O. P.
National Committee

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, April 21.—Republican national committee members returned to their homes today after a history-making meeting in which they committed the party to drastic new policies relating to war and postwar problems.

The committee was unanimous in demanding relentless prosecution of the war and peace without appeasement—only with victory.

The issue which aroused the greatest controversy—what part the United States should play in deciding the sort of peace the world shall have after the war—was decided substantially in conformity with the ideas of Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential candidate in 1940.

The convention resolutions proclaimed that the United States has an obligation to assist in bringing about cooperation among the nations of the world after the war, a statement which presented an abandonment of the idea of isolationism.

This clause in the resolutions did not employ the wording contained in the resolutions presented to the committee on behalf of Willkie but it followed his idea so closely that he announced in New York the action of the committee in this respect was highly satisfactory.

Will Keep Highways In Good Repair

State Highways To Be Maintained

Secretary Hughes Says That Roads Will Be Kept In Good Shape

WAR WILL NOT CURTAIL WORK

By JOHN PAGET
International News Service Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, April 21.—Secretary of Highways I. Lamont Hughes today assured Pennsylvania's two million motorists that the state's highway system will be adequately maintained during war-time despite material shortages.

"Although the war production board has halted all new construction not started prior to April 9," he declared, "the order will not force the department to curtail the $16,000,000 maintenance program that we have planned for this year."

Will Keep Roads Up
"In other words," he added, "the war will not force us to reduce maintenance and permit the roads to go unrepaired for long periods of time."

In 1939-40, the department spent $16,297,000 for maintenance and in the following two year period expended $17,057,000. Since the beginning of the present biennium in June, 1941, approximately $13,127,000 has been spent to keep the system in good condition.

"Unless something extraordinary happens," Hughes said, "we expect to spend more than the amount accounted for in 1940-41 for maintenance of the highways including repairs necessitated by floods, and snow removal as well as repairs to bridges and roads."

"Motorists need not fear that the roads will be ruined by a lack of repairs," he emphasized, "because we have the money, men and necessary materials for maintenance. However, construction of new roads must be postponed until after the war except those highways that military officials certify as necessary."

Priority For Materials
Hughes said that the necessary materials for maintenance have not been placed on the priorities list by federal officials.

"We will have plenty of concrete, stone, sand and gravel," he stated, "but not sufficient construction steel for a road-building program. In case a steel bridge is damaged beyond repair we expect to replace it with a concrete arch bridge."

Hughes said that Thomas C. Prime, chief engineer, was conferring with federal officials to determine whether the department could continue its program of widening highways to accommodate the increased flow of traffic on all main arteries.

At the present time, the department employs more than 12,000 men in the maintenance forces and another 3000 workers in departmental headquarters. Hughes said that the stoppage of new construction would necessarily force the department to furlough scores of employees both in the field and at headquarters because the volume of work will be reduced proportionately.

"As soon as the work falls off to the extent that some employees can be furloughed," he said, "it will be done immediately because there will not be any deadheads on the payroll."

"The only problem posed by the personnel reduction in the field is a possibility that it may seriously interfere with winter maintenance such as snow removal. It seems logical that men cut from the highway payroll will find other jobs immediately and therefore will not be available when the snow removal equipment when winter comes. We are working now to map some program to assure snow-free roads at all times in case a shortage of men becomes acute."

No indication that the defending forces are ready to capitulate although they have been under sporadic but heavy attack for more than 19 weeks.

Mention recently of "some casualties and some damage" left no doubt, however, that the defenders are being "whittled down" by constant shelling and aerial attack which eventually may force Wainwright to give up because of sheer exhaustion.

Fighting Grimly
But the 20th week of war in the Pacific finds the American-Philippine groups fighting grimly and heroically against numerically superior Japanese, proof enough that the United States intends to battle on to final victory.

No better example of America's determination to fight on to the bitter end could be offered than the report of continued fighting on the Island of Panay where a greatly outnumbered defensive force still is resisting a huge Japanese invasion army.

Although the Nipponese have dominated the air and sea lanes since the beginning of the Philippine conflict, Wainwright's troops on Panay and elsewhere have continued to fight fiercely against the invaders.

In its latest communique, the war department reported fresh landings by enemy troops in southwestern Panay, but also disclosed that in sharp fighting was in progress and that Wainwright's forces have halted temporarily the Nipponese advance by counter attacking.

Withdraw In Panay

Washington, April 21.—Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright today numbered forces withdrew today from two positions on invaded Panay Island but continued to exact a heavy toll from the Japs, as Fort Hughes and Drum again fought off dive bomber attacks.

Text of the war department's 202nd communique as of 9:30 a. m. EWT follows:

Philippine Theater—The heavy artillery fire on our forts lessened somewhat late yesterday. The damage inflicted was not great.

"Dive bomber attacks were made by the enemy on Forts Hughes and Drum. Most of the bombs dropped harmlessly in the water. No damage or casualties were reported at either fort."

"On the Island of Panay heavy Japanese attacks forced our troops to withdraw from two positions in antiquity. Our outnumbered forces are continuing their resistance and are exacting a heavy toll of enemy casualties."

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

HUGE NUMBERS WILL BE SHIFTED TO WAR WORK

clared that they expected to get the 2,000 men from housewives, youths, young girls and retired and older workers not normally considered as part of the labor supply market.

Women, McNutt said, will be asked to register voluntarily.

McNutt indicated that he may ask for changes in the draft law to allow group deferments of men by industries, exist in certain areas.

Congress specifically banned group deferments when it enacted the selective service act to prevent a recurrence of the scandals of World War I when men allegedly obtained and even bought jobs in shipyards to dodge the draft.

Opposes Group Deferments
Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, head of national draft headquarters, also has opposed group deferments by occupations, saying that the matter of deferments should be handled on the basis of individual cases. As a result, McNutt's statements about deferments caused a sensation in war agency circles in Washington. His remarks, made during a press conference, follow:

"Q You will tell them (selective service officials) to defer by groups?"

"A. By McNutt. That is right, as I understand it."

"Here a reporter asked: 'You mean group deferments?' and McNutt answered 'Yes' but the two remarks were later deleted from the transcript of the press conference."

"Q Also by regions, sir, or localities?"

"A. Well, I would suppose so."

"Q Brig. Gen. Hershey has often said he is opposed to group deferments?"

"A. Well, after all it is a question of where the determination of policy will be made."

Here, McNutt dropped the discussion of deferments but a reporter later brought up the subject again by asking:

"Governor, to get back to group deferments, does that mean that you might pick out an industry?"

McNutt interrupted:

"Let's get away from the group deferment thing. As I remember, in the selective service act there is some provision against group deferments."

"I think so," his questioner said, "well then, there will have to be legislation to change that?"

"There would have to be on that," McNutt said.

"Q Do you intend to ask for that?"

"A. That I don't know. If the need arises, certainly, we will ask for whatever is necessary."

CHINESE FREE 7,000 BRITISH HELD BY JAPS

In Burma is not unified, stating that the British are in supreme command in this area although Chinese troops are engaged in action everywhere.

Following the spectacular capture of Yennangyang in the northwestern Burma oil field district, the Chinese-British line extended roughly from Sale in the upper Irrawaddy river valley southeast to Bawlake, 50-odd miles west of Jap-held Toungoo.

Fliers Share Glory

Although the capture of Tennangyang, achieved by fresh Chinese forces aided by British mechanized units, continued to be the most important development in the Burma fighting, AVG and RAF fliers came in for their share of glory in connection with the new allied successes.

The American Flying Tigers accounted for five more enemy planes in week-end fighting, communiques revealed. A big Japanese bomber was shot down yesterday in northern Burma; two additional bombers were destroyed during a raid on an AVG base Saturday and a Jap fighter and reconnaissance plane were shot down in other engagements that same day.

No losses of planes or personnel were sustained by the Americans, it was disclosed.

Launch New Attack

The RAF directed its fire on the Japanese base of Allamyo in western Burma, destroying one Jap fighter and one reconnaissance plane in the process.

In keeping with the offensive spirit, British forces were reported to have launched a new attack against the Japanese right flank in a sector of the western front, and the Chinese continued to counter-attack against superior forces near Pymmana in the central sector.

South of Lokaw on the eastern front along the Salween river, however, heavily reinforced Japanese forces were continuing their assault on the Chinese positions and the Chinese were said to be fighting a strong rear-guard action, after sustaining strong tank and air attacks.

hits on ships, wharves, runways and airdrome installations. Our units also attacked flying boats and transports by machine-gun strafing. Opposition developed by strong fighter interception and one zero fighter was shot down and another probably damaged.

"Port Moresby: Saturday morning our fighters intercepted an enemy raid of five zero fighters and one enemy plane was shot down and another damaged."

"Salamaua: Allied bombers attacked the Salamaua airdrome Monday, damaging hangars and the headquarters building and destroying a fuel dump."

"The Philippines (Debu And Panay): Hostilities continue. The enemy made a new landing at San Jose."

"Mandanao: Aggressive patrol activity."

"Manila Bay: The enemy continued intermittent shelling and bombing of Corregidor with negligible effect; enemy artillery is abusing Our harbor defenses registered hits on enemy troop movements."

Propagandists are smart. They brazenly change a historical fact, knowing that few will remember or look it up.

ON BEING AN AMERICAN

IN 1940 congress approved a resolution setting aside the third Sunday in May each year as Citizenship Day. The occasion was to be one for public recognition of all who, by coming of age or naturalization, have attained the status of citizenship. The day was to be called "I Am An American Day."

In accordance with this resolution President Roosevelt has issued a proclamation designating Sunday, May 17, to be set aside for patriotic exercises "to impress upon all our citizens, both native-born and naturalized, the duties and opportunities of citizenship and its special responsibilities in a nation at war."

The national genius of peoples expresses itself in various fashions characteristic of their customs, traditions and habits of thought. Outside of Gilbert and Sullivan one cannot imagine, for example, an "I Am An Englishman Day." Yet no nation is more self-conscious, more inclined to recognize and celebrate its particular possessions and advantages. English literature hails the virtues of English roast beef, English oak, English beer, English hedges, English weather, an English April, English English and even English air.

Whitman was not indifferent to the geographical, geological, horticultural and meteorological phenomena peculiar to the United States. And William Cullen Bryant furnished a retort courteous to Robert Browning in these words:

These are the gardens of the Desert, these
The unshorn fields, boundless and beautiful,
For which the speech of England has no name—
The Prairies.

The prairies give Americans a sense of their continental spaciousness, but all of us have learned that this rich continent, set between two broad seas, is far from self-contained. Yet a sense of our American land, as such, our prairies, our mountains, our rivers, of our farms and our cities, of our skies and our soils—this sense of possession and use is a vital part of a citizen's heritage. It is these, as well as possessions of the spirit, that our citizen-soldiers are fighting to defend.

"I Am An American Day" will celebrate abstract patriotism, and it is well that this should be done. But patriotism also means pride in our own front garden and in the vista at the end of the street and in the fields and factories seen from train windows and in a thousand sights and sounds that give texture and meaning to the American sense. In these let us take sober delight, proud of being Americans and determined that these shall be held for ourselves and our children.

MANPOWER COMMISSION'S TASK

It isn't necessary immediately to conclude that drastic supervision of all Americans on the "work or fight" principle is concealed in the new War Manpower Commission. There is a pressing job of tremendous importance to be done to maintain a balance between industry, agriculture and the fighting forces, to insure the proper conduct of the war.

If Mr. McNutt, chairman of the commission, and his associates can solve that problem with any reasonable degree of success the country will be saved from errors that sooner or later would produce grave consequences.

That we were headed rapidly toward such errors in a big way is only too well evidenced by the April 1 estimate of the Department of Agriculture that 97,000 fewer workers were employed on American farms at that date this year than last.

Farm workers have hurried into the Army or Navy. Others have hurried into industrial plants. Until now it has been virtually a haphazard system and it needs correction, promptly. It will not serve to create a huge Army or Navy, in terms of men, if we can't equip them, feed them and keep the supplies rolling along. Neither will it avail us to rob the farms to increase the total of industrial workers.

To establish a much needed equilibrium is the first and, for the present, the real task facing the War Manpower Commission. Its early accomplishment would be a powerful aid toward victory.

U. S. VERSATILE ARMY

This is a cosmic army we are creating, an army fitted for service anywhere in the world, able to fight in any kind of climate, at home on land or in the air or under the sea. Little is said about it in official places. But from casual information it seems likely that, while not yet so large as our army in the last war, it may be better prepared to do more different things effectively than any other army in history.

You could take units out of this army and put them in the Arctic, or on a mountain top in a howling blizzard, and they'd eat it up. You could put other units on the hottest desert in Africa and they'd feel at home. Others would be ready to wipe up an enemy in northern woods of a tropical jungle. Others are skilled paratroops or swimmers or tank fighters. And so on until you get dizzy with the variety of their skills and equipment.

"Join the navy and see the world," enlistment posters used to advertise. But sailors never saw a lot of things this army is going to see.

Hitler is said to have new peace faglers out. He'd better keep them out of reach of American bombers.

Wonder if the Vichy boys ever have had dreams about French mobs oiling up the old guillotine for mass production.

Germans have been warned against "rumor-mongers." And rightly. It isn't true that MacArthur has landed at Brest—yet.

If the top Nazis had a slight chill when they heard about the American bombing raid on the Philippines it's only natural. They know the real business when they see it.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

MAKING PUNISHMENT WORK

Said a mother, recently, in a parents' forum, "You advise as punishment for a tot or runabout child, having him sit in a chair where he can be seen doing nothing for a definite time (from fifteen to forty minutes). It won't work with my four-year-old youngster. The moment I turn my back he is off the chair."

Any child who at three or four would leave the chair without permission, having been sentenced to it for a definite time, has not yet learned the meaning of NO nor wholesome respect for authority.

Child Makes It a Game
The chair-sitting punishment can be made very effective. But it won't work until or unless the child will stay there without being held, tied or watched. In other words, it won't unless the youngster knows with absolute certainty that if he were to move from the chair one inch he would get an instant spanking.

What usually happens in cases that don't work is this: The child is ordered to sit in the chair. He goes there. When the parent is not watching, the youngster slips away from the chair as far as he thinks is safe. If the parent should see him away from the chair, she jumps toward him as if to seize him, or vells at him, then the wise youngster quickly returns to the chair only to wait for another chance to escape. To him it is a fascinating game in which he usually wins, being quicker than his mother.

Mother Erred
The mother erred. She wholl, missed the point in his control. She was thinking of keeping him in the chair and not of training him in obedience. When he left the chair even an inch he deliberately disobeyed and earned punishment. Unless he got it without fail he lost respect for authority and was practicing in disobedience.

If, therefore, Mother you ever see your child away from the chair to which he has been sentenced don't shout or jump at him. Punish him with a spanking. Be so consistent that he'll be sure pain will as surely follow his disobedience in this respect as night will follow day. Then this chair-sitting punishment will work and corporal punishment can be abandoned permanently.

Solving Parent Problems
Q Should a child's allowance include money for clothing?
A It should include some as soon as the allowance has been operating well. It might at first include one item such as hose or stockings with others gradually added until it took in everything before he finished high school.

Q What are the chief characteristics of a good allowance scheme?
A That it be based on a budget of specific expenditures necessary for a definite period, as a week, and also include a small amount to do with as the child pleases.

Q Do you believe villages, towns and cities should have a curfew law?
A No; but every home should, to the end that the runabout child will make a beeline for the house when the street lights appear. Perhaps no other single home practice would do more to reduce juvenile delinquency and crime. I wish.

Q Do you believe villages, towns and cities should have a curfew law?
A No; but every home should, to the end that the runabout child will make a beeline for the house when the street lights appear. Perhaps no other single home practice would do more to reduce juvenile delinquency and crime. I wish.

Q Trying conscientiously to make her eight-year-old boy, once a successful pupil, now a laggard, do better work at school a mother has "punished him by sending him to bed without his supper and taken cherished possessions or privileges away from him."

A No punishment at home is likely to make a child do better at school. He might well be coerced to be home at night, and to do his home work if there be such at his age; but if he is to work harder at his lessons he must be guided in ways to win more success at them.

A BRIDGE EXPERT TALKS

"I cannot stand stupidity!" said one who heads his class.
"The sort of fool who doesn't know when he should bid or pass. My friends may very useful be in varying arts or trades. But I insist they ought to know when clubs outnumber spades."

"A surgeon once who saved my life with most unusual skill. Will never hear from me again, unless I'm taken ill. He thinks that bridge is played for fun—that's going much too far—The game's intended for a few to show how smart they are!"

"I know a lot of slow-poke chaps. Upon their cards they look. And try to think of everything that's printed in the book. Once played, they think the hand is done, which isn't so at all. I'll play one seven weeks later on, and every card recall."

"I fear I'll have to quit the game. No many seem to be. Sufficiently endowed with brains to play at bridge with me. And looking back across the years I find it sad but true. The stupid are so many, and the brilliant are so few!"

Nature makes all necessary acts pleasurable. People wouldn't help a fallen brother if it didn't make them feel good.

Question: How long after one has moved in the new home should a housewarming be given?—C. T.

Answer: There is no set time for this occasion. A housewarming is just like any other party except that the guests should be taken through the house for inspection and bring gifts for the new home.

So you had better have your house ready for close scrutiny—even your closets—before you plan such a party.

If you wish to have your party in the afternoon, give a tea, taking place from 3 until 5 or 6 o'clock. Issue your invitations by telephone, by visiting cards (mentioning the person on the occasion, the date and the time) or by notes.

Should you prefer it, your housewarming may take place at any evening party. Dancing, bridge or any other game you prefer may be planned to entertain your guests after they have inspected your new home from attic to cellar.

Debate On Battleships Still Continues
Both Sides Of Question Are Aired Again
Admit Battleships Need Air Protection

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The battleships still supreme, according to orthodox sea-fighting professionals. It's obsolete already, and will soon be as such as the Codo, according to aviation enthusiasts. The subject is hotly debated between 'em in Washington and also, from all accounts, between other countries' rival groups of experts.

Submarines are a factor in the equation also. A sub isn't very well equipped to shoot down a plane, but it can torpedo a surface boat quite conveniently. And, from overhead, flyers, at the same time can bomb it. This makes it so vulnerable, assert disciples of the new school of warfare, that the bigger type of water-borne belligerent craft can become almost a liability rather than an asset. It's agreed that plenty of little power-destroyers, continue to be needed, to run errands and overhaul merchantmen—but not big battleships.

Shucks, say the battleships defenders, submarines are a nuisance and it's a fact that battleships do need flocks of planes to scare enemy planes out of their adjacent atmosphere and to spot subs, swishing around underneath, but the battleships are the main consideration—they're real sea strength.

Huh, rejoins the aviators, according to your battleships' own account, you have to have planes protect you. If you have to be everlastingly protected, how can you consider yourselves as anything more than an aviatorial adjunct, for a few surface purposes, like mass landings? And even those can be provided for by mere transports. We'll protect THOSE, without any of your cooperation.

Pro And Con
But you can't stay in the air long enough for trans-oceanic strife, insist the surface warriors.

No, concede the aviators, but that's our plane carriers' mission—to take us close up to such shores as we want to scout over and just leave to, while we take off from 'em. Talk about adjuncts? Plane carriers are OUR aviatorial adjuncts. You battleships aren't even an adjunct. You're, nothing but a responsibility.

Of course a plane carrier has to be protected, too, but it has its own planes right on hand, to attend to it.

Another item mentioned by the flyers is that at least half a dozen planes can be manufactured at about the same rate as one surface ship, or faster than that, in comparison with a big battleship.

The nub of the battleships' case is that we must control the sea, to win the pending war, and that only battleships can control it. The aviators' reply is that aviation can control battleshipping. They cite Japan's activities in support of their contention, pointing out that the Japs have a pretty sizable battleship fleet, but have depended principally upon their flyers for their recognized accomplishments, to date, in the Pacific.

With experts differing, as they do, a layman isn't entitled to much of an opinion.

Aviation's scored formidably but, since it's too new for the professionals themselves to agree on, as to its merits in comparison with older-fashions, we take off from here, all the bystander can do is to look on and wonder how the old and new systems will stack up relatively in the long run.

Wood Comes Back
It's noteworthy, incidentally, that the wooden ship is coming back into its own as something of a submarine-proof.

Wooden hulls aren't as resistant to munitions as steel ones are. Nevertheless, steel can be punctured, and when it is, steel sinks. A wooden boat can be perforated and kept on floating. It's raw material is lighter than water. It can be tolerably well smashed up and remain on the surface.

Navy Secretary Frank Knox comments on the tendency. He says it's resulted in a "notable reduction" in the number of United Nations' merchantman sinkings, and hints at the desirability of wooden bottoms for submarine-chasers. Shot full of holes, they go on navigating. Naturally they require speedboats, but they don't go down, ker-olunk, as a steel craft does when a submarine bull's-eye ventilates it.

The same thing may be true overhead when a plane's bomb lands on board.

Surface armorclads were regarded as great at the time they were invented. Now they're a medium of skepticism concerning 'em.

The World and the Mud Puddles

ARE AMERICANS READY?

William Allen White acquired long ago a national reputation for various reasons. He broke into the limelight as the Editor of the Emporia (Kansas) Gazette, when he wrote his famous editorial for the paper known as "What is Wrong with Kansas?" and he has been writing very pointed editorials ever since. Sometimes his writing are a little out of order, but recently he offered a prize to the readers of the Gazette for the best list of ten citizens of Emporia who would be hanged if the town should be taken over by the Nazis.

White reminds his readers that orders would then be given to clamp down on a free press, clamp down on free speech; shut all high schools and colleges above the eighth grade, make it tough for preachers; abolish all luncheon and service clubs and place the Jewish merchant in the town in a concentration camp. And the prize that White offered was for the best answer to the question: "Who in Emporia would love liberty enough to make it tough going for the Nazis?"

Well, there are those who like to think that no enemy will ever water their horses in the Mississippi; that such a question is silly, for no one expects the Nazis to occupy Emporia. But this question of White's is a question of life or death.

We know that the Germans have done in the nations of Europe which their armies have overrun. They have done just exactly what White suggested in his writing and we know, approximately, what the Japanese have done in Hongkong and Singapore and other spots in the East Indies where their armies have taken possession. Discounting all stories as false or otherwise of the terrible things done by both the German and the Japanese forces we know that a great part of the story is accurate and the question pointedly put is: "Are the people of this nation willing to carry on, if necessary, gorilla warfare against any invader, are they willing to perform as are a great many of the citizens of Yugoslavia performing, are they willing to do and to die?"

Five Day Maneuvers Conducted By Army In Panama Canal Zone

By RICHARD ARMSTRONG
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

A JUNGLE POSITION, Panama, April 21. — Thousands of weary American soldiers upon whom depends the land defense of the Panama Canal are resting in their jungle billets today after five days of maneuvers which would have been deemed impossible a few short years ago.

Divided into the "yellow" or attacking force which made a hypothetical landing on the Panamanian shore where sea and jungle meet, and the "blues," a defending force which, for purposes of realism, were kept in ignorance of the "yellow" movements until they learned them under conditions of warfare, the two forces spread through the jungles, made incredible night marches, attacked, counter-attacked, hacked trails, climbed mountains until almost every foot of what was once considered impenetrable territory bore the mark of working troops.

Brig. Gen. Edward J. Stackpole, Jr., commanded the "blues."

Whether the "yellows" succeeded in taking the canal or the "blues" were successful in their defense will be a question long discussed in army camps among the men, but the interest in such a "victory" or "defeat" is a minor one to Lieutenant General Frank M. Andrews, commander of the Caribbean defense, and his staff.

Test Canal Defenses

Maj. Gen. Robert H. Lewis, umpire of the maneuvers, made it clear that the chief reason of the giant activities through the jungle was to test the defenses of the canal under all the possible circumstances of invasion, the most efficient use of varied arms in jungle warfare, and the fitness of the men who will stage the defense.

The findings of the umpires and the general staff will, in all probability, not be made public but it was evident that high ranking officers were more than pleased with results and the manner in which United States troops here have adapted themselves to jungle life and mastered the technique of jungle warfare.

Soldiers moved over mountains and slashed their way through the jungles in broiling heat which was followed by torrential rains.

Troops and mule pack trains fought their way through muddy trails that seemed impassable. Outstanding among the feats of the "yellow" forces, under the command of Brig. Gen. Jesse C. Drain, was a forced night march of 600 soldiers commanded by Lt. Col. Dana P. McGowan.

From 2 o'clock one afternoon until 5 o'clock the next morning they fought their way for 26 miles through the mountains over a 3,100-foot pass and through jungle foothills to cut the highway and capture a battalion of "blues."

Flanking Movement

However, Gen. Stackpole, was not idle. With a brilliant flanking movement he in turn captured a battalion of "yellows."

In the forced night march Colonel McGowan lost only one man, a soldier who fell over a cliff and broke his ankle.

With the 600 was Lt. Matthew H. Imrie, chaplain, who before he entered the service was assistant rector of the Church of Heavenly Rest, Fifth avenue and East 90th street, New York.

The slightly built chaplain has become a real "junker" during his service with troops in Panama. Armed only with his prayer book and "iron rations" he shares the marches and the hardships of his charges.

But his work is more than that of spiritual guidance.

He makes it his task to see that the troops are entertained, lends a hand to seeing they are properly fed when on the march, and is ready to share their personal problems any hour of the day or night.

As one rugged trooper put it, "he is a man's chaplain."

Outstanding also in the maneuvers was the work of the specially trained "jungle platoons" who have learned to filter through the jungles with the same ease of the natives who start swinging machetes when they still are children.

Emulate Jap Tactics

Many of them, assigned to the "yellow" forces, staged their attack in the manner used by Japanese troops in the Far East. It was the task of the "blue" forces to meet and destroy them.

Although the attacking forces use almost every maneuver known to modern warfare, it became obvious to observers that despite their brilliant operations, they were being weakened by the defending "blues" during every mile they advanced.

General Lewis warned both sides they would be heavily penalized for undue use of highways, operating on the theory that when the attack does come, bombers probably will put highways and bridges out of commission. Consequently the action was spread over hills and jungles with only slight action taking place in the vicinity of the highways.

Despite the hardships, the men were in high spirits. Loaded like mules, they grinned cheerily as they plodded through a driving rain, waving to umpires as they crossed highways and disappeared again in the green depths of the jungle.

There was some strong "soldier language" from captured groups who as they did back home at the ball game, doubted the wisdom of umpires.

"Those umpires ruled us captured," groused on. "That's what he thinks. Why, hell, if we had been using live ammunition—"

Offensive Against Hitler Shaping Up

British Press Declares "Tide Of Offensive Spirit In Making"

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 21.—A United Nations offensive against Hitler is taking shape, the British press declared as news reached London that U. S. Chief of Staff General George C. Marshall has returned to the United States accompanied by British officials.

A tide of offensive spirit is in the making, said the Daily Express. "Discussions between General Marshall and Prime Minister Churchill will bring an intensification of the blitz against Germany."

The Daily Herald said that "important agreements" have been reached between General Marshall and British military officials.

Much of the British press comment featured the fact that General Marshall had expressed great interest in the technique of the British commando forces.

London papers featured the raids on Japan by "enemy" bombers and declared that the raids on the Nippon homeland would compel the Japanese high command to recall some of its warships from the Indian Ocean and other Pacific areas to meet the threat of the bomber attacks on Japan.

New Synthetic Rubber Being Tested By U. S.

Secret Tests Under Way Of New Type Of Synthetic Rubber It Is Revealed

By MARGO BROWNE
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 21.—War production board agencies today are experimenting with a new kind of synthetic rubber which officials say can be produced four times as cheap as other substitutes and is as durable as the natural product.

The office of price administration is conducting the tests of the new rubber substitute and tires made from the process are being used on Washington taxi cabs to determine their durability.

Government officials are concealing the name of the inventor and the location of his plant which is now under guard of F.B.I. agents. C.P.A. officials said that it was of real importance to keep all information concerning the plant, the inventor and his process secret. They said that he had worked on his rubber substitute for six years in a small southern town.

The new product can be put on the market within a few months, according to the inventor, and he claims it will have a market price of 15 cents a pound where other synthetic rubber sells for about 44 cents.

The plant necessary for mass production, he claims, can be built quickly because it requires very little steel for construction and since the process requires gas reduction plants, oil plants throughout the country could be used.

A special method of refining, known as polymerization is used in the process and hydrocarbonization is required.

Taxicab operators say that the tires made from this synthetic rubber are wearing as well as natural rubber tires and have been put through very strenuous driving.

The war production board also is investigating a number of other rubber substitutes but have not yet made public the results of their experiments.

Brush Burning Destroys Nesting Cover For Birds

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 21.—As spring brush burning destroys valuable nesting cover for game and song birds, and is of little value to the farmer, the Pennsylvania game commission warns—"Don't burn brush and grass."

Annually, farmers set brush afire, thus doing away with safe breeding sites and travel lanes for game. "Instead of being destroyed, brush patches should be increased in numbers or size wherever untillable ground exists," the commission urged.

HARRISBURG, April 21.—Pennsylvania has had a real taste of spring and is showing its appreciation by bursting forth in spring blossoms in the hills and countryside.

The State Department of Commerce reports that in the southern half of the State forsythia and magnolia trees are in bloom with dozens of wild flowers pushing through the soft ground. In the forests are signs of hepatica, rue anemone, bloodroot, arbutus and other colorful blossoms heralding spring.

Violets and pussy willows are on their way as are the shadblow and redbud blossoms.

In a few more weeks there will be blossoms not only in private gardens but along the roadside. A little later come fruit blossoms such as apple, peach and cherry and early May, of course, brings out the creamy-white dogwood which so profusely covers Pennsylvania hillside.

With the freshening green of wheat fields, the brown of newly plowed lands and nature bursting into life in a thousand ways, Pennsylvania in the springtime presents an unforgettable picture restful to winter-weary eyes and peaceful to tired minds and frayed nerves.

Charges Studied Effort To Render Impotent Bi-Party Government

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, April 21.—Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts chairman of the Republican National committee, charged Monday that "some" administration leaders are making a studied effort to render impotent the bi-party system of government.
Martin addressed party leaders prior to a national meeting of the Republican national committee which opened in Chicago today. He declared that while the Republican party would give unqualified support to the prosecution of the war, it would not tolerate any more on the part of the administration to use the war for the purpose of keeping the Democratic party in power.
He charged that certain administration leaders, whom he did not name, with making an effort to liquidate all criticism, which he warned was a threat to the Republic.
"If and when the day comes," he said, "that all criticism, appraisal, evaluation and suggestions can be suppressed and the bi-party system of government operation liquidated, constitutional government in the United States will be at an end."
Martin will have lost everything he entered this war to preserve. The ideals which the men of America have gone forth to the fighting front lines to uphold will have been lost at home.

JITTERY JAPANESE STILL SPECULATE ON BOMB MYSTERY

first announcements of the bombings came over the ether waves last Saturday morning.

Bombing Still Mystery
Just what happened is still enshrouded in doubt and has developed into the latest mystery thriller in both military and popular circles here. According to all rules of probability, it seemed that Tokyo was just about the least likely of all capitals of warring nations to suffer bombing raids. Distances and factors of risk seemed to render them prohibitive.

Yet it happened, and that is sufficient to fill every American citizen with glee. There is a magnificent story of daring and enterprise by Yankee airmen hidden behind the veils of censorship. It has not been told as yet, and will not be told for some time to come. If the U. S. bombers made use of secret bases, as seems possible, it may not be told for a long time, as obviously the location of those bases must not be given away.

Unpleasant Jap Surprise
The complete and unpleasant surprise scored by the bombing of Japan is evidenced by the repeated false alarms that have followed the attacks on Nippon's main island.

Since Saturday there has been at least one alert every day, and it is definite that there has been only one raid and one squadron of bombers.

Another revelation chalked up was the unpreparedness of Japanese raid-alarm circuits for the bombing attacks on Nippon's main island. According to all reports, Japanese cities were caught completely flat-footed by the appearance of the bombing squadron, with no fore-warning whatever. A lot of Japanese watchers and listeners in air-raid warning nets are likely to be asked to explain this big army on account of being thus caught asleep at the switch.

What the bombers were and where they came from remains a mystery. Tokyo radio broadcasts announce that they were American B-25 planes, but these statements, of course, are propaganda, and may have been put out as bait to find out what the planes really were.

Seems Unlikely Type
Subjected to analysis, the B-25 seems an unlikely type of American plane for the Tokyo raids. It is listed as a medium bomber, but weighs in the neighborhood of 10 tons, much heavier than the types ordinarily carried by aircraft carriers. The B-25 is an army plane.

If American forces have indeed struck at Tokyo, this big army bomber on shipboard and launching it within striking range of Tokyo, they have accomplished a feat of army-navy cooperation and engineering adroitness unequalled in the annals of the present war.

A good deal of color is lent to this hypothesis by the reports from Chungking implying the landing of planes that bombed Japan at a secret base or bases in Chiang Kai-Shek's China. It is conceivable that B-25 bombers might be flown off a naval carrier in emergency, but such planes are not equipped with navy arresting devices for bringing them to a quick halt on a carrier's deck, and it is extremely unlikely that once having left the carrier they could get back safely.

Other international speculations concerning the origin of the bombers, include secret Philippine fields, bases in Alaska and according to the German radio, bases in Russia's Siberian maritime provinces. Fly-into bases could make the hops from the Philippines and Alaska, but the distance would be too great for B-25s. Siberian airbases would make wonderful bases for bombing Japan, but apparently these remain unavailable.

Statements and opinions herein are private to the writer and are not to be construed as reflecting the views of the navy department.

The common brick is red in color due to the presence of iron compounds which, when the brick is baked, change into red oxide. By adding lime or magnesia to the clay, a brown or yellow-colored brick is obtained.

RECAPTURE VILLAGES
The Moscow radio said that Russian forces had recaptured several villages in the vicinity of Leningrad. It was reported that 300 Germans were killed when the Soviets beat off spirited counter-attacks.

The Russian troops in the north were said to be making continued local advances on the Finnish front. Much war material and foodstuffs was reported captured on the Karelian isthmus.

(The German radio broadcast a dispatch by the German news agency, DNB, claiming that the Russians had lost 12,000 men, either killed or wounded, in fighting up to April 17 on the Svir front between Lakes Ladoga and Onega. The report said Russian units which made local break-throughs were surrounded and annihilated.

Accounts of the extensive air fighting said that at least 1,000 German planes were destroyed during March while another 500 had been smashed during the first two weeks of April. The midnight communiqué said 31 Nazi planes were destroyed April 19 while the Russians lost 13.

(The Daily Express in London quoted a report by the Moscow radio in which it was claimed 25 German planes were shot down when the Nazis attempted a heavy raid against the Arctic port of Murmansk. The Germans were said to have sent 120 planes into the attack, in waves of 70 and 50. Only a few of the raiders got through, according to the Russians, and dropped their bombs haphazardly. In addition to the 25 planes destroyed 12 were said to have been damaged.

A supplement to the mid-day communiqué said a battalion of German reinforcements in Poland had mutinied against their officers while en route to the Russian battle front. Special detachments were reported to have been called upon to subdue the unruly troops.

No important changes took place along the front during the night, the communiqué said.

Miss Ethel Bird of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. in New York, who is particularly concerned with problems of nationality communities, both the foreign born and "second generation," arrived in New Castle Monday to confer with leaders of the local Y. W. C. A.

Yesterday, Miss Bird met with the International Institute committee of the New Castle Y. W. C. A. where she told of the distressing needs of the 138,000 Japanese who are being required to leave their homes, their farms and their businesses, and be moved 150 miles into the interior where there are no houses, water, schools or churches. Miss Bird said that the Y. W. C. A. is being asked to move Y. W. C. A. centers along with them.

She also said the local California Y. W. C. A. has offered to help their Japanese members in crating their household goods so that the government can store them until after the war. Miss Bird said the hysteria in California is not shared by the white people in Hawaii who have many more Japanese about them.

Miss Bird also spoke to the Senior Girl Reserves at the Elm street branch and will speak tonight to the business clubs. Public Affairs committee and Board of the Y. W. C. A.

If the Phama Canal had been constructed at sea level and a little wider, much of the water composing the warm Gulf Stream would flow into the Pacific Ocean. This would have resulted in a very much colder climate in the countries of northern Europe that are being warmed by the Gulf Stream, and might even have meant destructive glaciation in some countries.

Enemy Aliens Are Arrested

Raids Coincide With German-American Parties Celebrating Hitler's Birthday

(International News Service)
NEWARK, N. J., April 21 — A force of 150 federal agents, timing their forays to coincide with German-American parties celebrating the 53rd birthday of Adolf Hitler, staged a series of lightning raids throughout the state today and took scores of enemy aliens into custody as well as visiting the homes of 60 others.

E. E. Conroy, head of the Newark office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said the homes of 30 other suspects were placed under scrutiny.

"The raids are the result of the surveillance of the known leaders of the German movement in New Jersey," Conroy declared.

One of the places raided was the City Hall Tavern in Union City where August Klapprot, described by Federal Agents as the former eastern divisional leader of the German-American Bund, was questioned. Also questioned was Rev. John C. Fitting, North Bergen, former secretary of the Hudson Branch of the Bund.

The FBI took two men into custody at the Tavern. They were Norland Cordes, 21, Hoboken, who is alleged to have arrived from Germany six months ago and Bernhard Mueller, 34, Union City, a helper employed by the New York Central railroad.

Both Klapprot and Fitting were indicted by the Sussex County grand jury and charged with inciting racial and religious hatred. They were both charged with being inactive members at the Bund camp Norland in New Jersey.

The federal agents, whose raids encompassed 40 cities and towns including Atlantic City, Hoboken, and Jersey City as well as communities located in New Jersey's highly industrialized centers, netted various articles of contraband. Among the contraband confiscated were several short wave radio sets, a storm trooper uniform, a rifle, ammunition and quantities of German money.

The raids were staged without warning and were fashioned along the raids conducted last week during a test blackout when federal agents swooped down upon five New Jersey counties and took an undisclosed number of enemy aliens into custody.

It was reported that those arrested would be taken to Ellis Island where they would be interned for the duration of the war.

The first session of the Ohio Regional Conference of the Independent Fundamental Churches of America was held Monday night in the Galvany Gospel Tabernacle on the East Side New Castle. A good attendance opened the Conference with some 20 visiting preachers and their wives from out of town.

Sessions of this conference will continue through today and Wednesday from 9:30 a. m. through evening services at 7:30 p. m.

Will Select New Site For Keepsie

NEW YORK, April 21.—This year's Poughkeepsie regatta will not be held along the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie.

Due to conditions brought about by the war, the association in charge has decided to select a new site for the colorful spring event, possibly on Onondaga Lake at Syracuse.

The regatta will likely be run off in mid-June. Last year the Keepsie event was held on June 25.

Krug went to her home, having torn her address off a package she had sent to German prisoners at the camp, Bugas said. The woman then helped Krug, it was said, to contact Stephan who operates a restaurant near the Belle Isle Bridge.

Stephan was accused by Federal agents of giving the fugitive Nazi money and directions to speed him on his flight Sunday morning.

Mrs. Thompson Named Delegate By W.C.T.U. Unit

Will Attend Regional Convention To Be Held In May At Oil City

ELLWOOD CITY, April 21.—Mrs. Charles Houk opened her home, in Orchard avenue, in a hospitable manner last evening to members of the Hazel Dell W. C. T. U. society for the April meeting. Twenty-three members and four guests, Mrs. Hattie Stottler, East Liverpool, Mrs. W. Dale Frye, Mrs. John King and Mrs. Charles Derrow, attended.

After the singing of "America," Mrs. Florence Burns led the devotion, and read several temperance poems as did Mrs. Bessie Houk. Mrs. Jacob Elmer and Mrs. Matilda McFate took part in the opening program and Miss Amy Grace Frye played an accordion selection and sang, "Then Jesus Came."

Business was in charge of Mrs. Floyd Thompson, president, and the group voted to send her as a delegate to the regional meeting to be held on May 14 and 15 at Oil City. Thursday, April 30, was announced as the date of the spring institute to be held at the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church. Earl Friday joined the society as an honorary member.

After the business, Mrs. L. A. Lightfoot, Y. T. Council leader of the Sankey Union, gave a talk to a group of local young people interested in the formation of a youth council. Concluding the program was a fine talk by Mrs. J. E. Pringle on the relation of the spiritual life to the liquor traffic.

A white elephant sale provided diversion with the hostess being assisted in serving a refreshing lunch by Mrs. Earl Yost and Mrs. Don Stevenson.

On Tuesday, May 18, the Union will meet with Mrs. J. E. Pringle, Orchard avenue, and Mrs. Don Stevenson will be the devotional leader.

"What A Life" To Be Presented By Senior Class

Comedy To Be Given At High School Thursday, Friday Nights

ELLWOOD CITY, April 21.—The May class of Lincoln high school will present a three-act comedy, "What A Life," on Thursday and Friday evenings, April 23 and 24, at the high school auditorium.

"What A Life" was written by Clifford Goldsmith and first produced in New York in the spring of 1938, and became an immediate success. Miss Elizabeth McKnight will direct the performance.

The story centers about a teen-aged boy named Henry Aldrich whose talents are drawing pictures of teachers and getting into trouble. His only friend in the faculty is Mr. Nelson, assistant principal, who has problems of his own in the form of Miss Shea, the office secretary.

Events move quickly and the many musical predicaments of Henry keep the audience amused throughout the play.

Young Flyers Tell Of Action

American Pilots In Australia Recount Experiences In First Attacks

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Correspondent

AN ADVANCED UNITED NATIONS BASE, somewhere in Australia, April 21—Colonel Eugene Eubank, who flew in the last war and still flies in this one—as the Japs are able to testify—says the most amazing thing about our young pilots is the superb action they display on their initial missions.

All these boys admit they are somewhat nervous starting on a mission, but once they reach their target and drop their first bombs, all that nervousness disappears. They become so interested in their job that they forget everything else.

Navigator Lieut. Dave Nelson of Alameda, Calif., Pilot Fletcher Glenn of Amarillo, Texas; co-pilot A. H. Hutchinson of St. Nooba, Miss., and Pilot Bob Pearson of Houston, Texas, were discussing this point today in connection with their first completed bombing mission during which they hit ships and destroyed a number of Jap planes on the ground.

Nervous Starting
"I was decidedly nervous starting off," Nelson admitted, "because I was going up against an unknown quantity, but when I directed the ship safely onto the target, I felt more confident. Then when Bomberdier Sgt. Ronald Eubank of Canton, Ohio, dropped the first bomb, all my nervousness disappeared."

"We had nine planes," Nelson continued, "and our targets were airbases, shipping, and anything else we could hit. We flew in three groups. Four planes, including my ship, hitting the airbase and the other five taking ships in the harbor."

"We did a swell job at the airbase, catching several big bombers and destroying them on the ground, along with runways. Sgt. Eubank dropped one bomb squarely on a big Jap bomber taking off, and it blew up. Three were caught standing still, others were damaged."

"We feel a job like ours play a large part in slowing the Jap advance southward. Meanwhile, the other planes were dropping eggs all over about 25 scattered ships in the harbor. Pearson's plane scored a direct hit on a transport, and some body else dropped eight bombs around a merchantman, which sank rapidly in flames."

"Anti-aircraft fire was terrific but the speed of our new bombers makes them a very poor target. "Now that I have told you about this, now about letting my parents and Betty Grundy of Los Angeles know that everything is under control?"

Lieut. Jim Oliver of Atlanta, Ga., whose plane sank a merchantman, joined the party just in time to ask that his parents and Helen Kilpatrick be advised that he is having the time of his life.

Hutchinson wants his parents and Mary Armstrong of Jackson, Miss., to keep the home fires burning. He cautions Mary not to take any stock in a certain Marine. The other boys want to tell their families everything is alright.

Pearson wishes to be remembered to Will Hamilton and the other boys at the Houston Yacht club.

Lieut. O'Hare In Nation's Capital

Navy's No. 1 Ace Of World War II Tells Of Battle High Over Pacific

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Lt. Edward H. O'Hare, the navy's number one ace of World War II, said Monday in an interview that the thing he wanted most after shooting down six Jap bombers high above the Pacific ocean was "a glass of water."

At a press conference at the Navy Department during a visit to the nation's capital, the St. Louis flyer told newspaper men that the aerial battle "somewhere in the Pacific" far from land, was so furious and happened so quickly he couldn't remember the details.

Asked what he thought about as his plane roared toward the Jap planes, 10,000 feet above the ocean, O'Hare answered, "you wonder how you are going to come out."

"You worry about the carrier, too, because if the carrier isn't there when you get back you don't have many places to go," O'Hare said. "When it was all over my throat was pretty dry, and I sure could have used a glass of water."

O'Hare said that carrier-based planes shot down 17 of the 18 twin-engine Jap bombers which attacked the carrier.

"One of the planes chased the last Jap bomber for 100 miles, but he had to turn back to the carrier because he was running low on fuel. That one bomber might have got back."

O'Hare's companion plane developed gun trouble and dropped out for about five minutes.

"By the time he got his guns working, it was all over," O'Hare related.

The hero said that he could not remember much of the actual battle, except that he kept his guns blazing at one bomber after another, turning from his targets only when the enemy crafts were in flames.

He said that the Jap planes had tail gunners and "turtle" gunners in other parts of their ships, but his plane was hit only once in the wing by a machine gun bullet. O'Hare added that the American carrier knew the attack was due because it had been spotted by Jap flying boats some time before the battle occurred.

Genaro Defeats Russell Baxter In Third Round

After Being Floored Baxter Goes Down Without Being Hit

HAD GENARO WOBBLY IN SECOND ROUND

Russell Baxter, middleweight prize of Lawrence county, was humbled, yes, forced to grovel in resin dust last night when, battered to the floor by vicious Frankie Genaro of Youngstown in the third round of their much talked and written of battle in The Arena.

A solid whack on the jaw sent down the Lawrence county pride. Groggily he attempted to get up then, without being struck again, dropped to the floor and Referee Sam Leshock stopped the fight.

He ruled that Baxter, having gone down without being hit, was disqualified. In our mind the referee acted sensibly. Had he permitted Russell to get up he might have become a party to legalized manslaughter. Russell was dreamy eyed.

However, let it be recorded that up to the time that Genaro fired the cannon-like right that dropped Baxter, Mr. Genaro was out of the running by the proverbial mile.

Russell had out-boxed and out-spiced him and going into the third chapter appeared as though the Shenango Kid would easily romp home with the bacon. But boxing is boxing and apparently Russell forgot his cue and became careless.

They slugged in the third—which found Baxter giving away his advantage in boxing ability to place himself on even ground with Genaro.

Then, suddenly, Genaro landed a vicious right to the jaw.

This blow didn't drop Baxter. It infuriated him. Into another slug-fest—and then, that punch to the chin! Baxter went down, attempted to arise then went down without being hit.

We were right near Russell. We could note his condition. He was at sea. Had he got up and been struck it might have proved injurious. The referee sensibly called upon the ruling which prohibits going down without being struck. This was the referee's cue.

However, there are few who witnessed last night's fight, which was a battle, insofar as amateurs are concerned, who don't believe that Baxter had the fight won when he lost it by not pursuing his first and second round strategy.

True, he missed considerably. So did Genaro. For two rounds Baxter made the fight by forcing and at the end of the second round landed a solid smash to the chin that sent Genaro wobbling to his corner.

The fans won't be reconciled until they see Baxter and Genaro again. Genaro wants to fight Chis.

Scribblers Pick Alsab As Winner Of Derby Classic

(International News Service) LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 21.—Some 515 sports writers and radio sports forecasters have installed Alsab a 3 to 2 choice to win the 68th running of the Kentucky derby at Churchill Downs on May 2. It was announced today by Frank Menke, publicity director of the blue grass classic.

In a poll, which closed April 20, 205 picked Alsab to win with Requesed second with 131 votes. Bless Me ranked third with 64. Sun Again polled 38, Devil Diver, 23, with Regards 15 and Apache 12.

Only 19 of the 150 horses originally nominated for the derby were named as possible winners. Menke, who has been conducting similar polls since 1928 pointed out that not one "majority" horse has ever won. In recent years Fighting Fox, El Chico, Bimelech and Our Boots were the choices.

SIMON'S RETIREMENT IS NEWS TO MINTZ

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, April 21.—Col. Jake Mintz, matchmaker for the Rooney-McGuire fight club, today said the announced retirement of Abe Simon from the ring was news to him.

"The last word I had with Johnston 'James J. Johnston, Simon's manager,'" Mintz said, "was last Friday night at Cleveland. He positively assured me Simon would show up in Pittsburgh April 27 for his fight with Harry Bobo."

Mintz said he would talk with Johnston later today to get some official word on Ample Abe's retirement.

Union Baseballers Trip Rockets, 7-3

Baseball made its debut here on Monday as the Union Civics, composed of former Civilian Control players, lambasted the Rockets, formerly the Bush A. C., 7-3, in a City-County Independent league practice tilt.

Thompson laced a triple for the losers while Montabon and Bud Hille each contributed a homer to the Civics' attack. Kot Baber, Shoaff and Lowers took turns on the knoll for the winning nine while Van Dusen and McCann twirled for the Rockets.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Should the spirit of the late Les Darcy, middleweight, hover above the Land Down Under, his native clime, he will see sons of men who were acquainted through newspaper accounts with the Great Les in the days when he was the object of an assertedly undeserved attack in this country because of a boxing feud—being a slacker from Australia. However, Darcy later joined the U. S. Army. Infected teeth found a crushed spirit unable to fight against the ravages of illness and he died here—in a strange country.

Darcy was said to be the main support of a family of 13. Australia did not have conscription at that time. He left on a tanker for the U. S. after knocking out George Chip. After learning of Darcy's departure for America, Chip cabled relatives here. The contents of the cable was told us the same day as it was received. So astounding as the news, world-wide news association whom we reported to refused to accept the report as fact.

It appears that chagrined because Darcy had left Australia for U. S. to seek purses to which he firmly believed he was entitled, had repercussions in the U. S. and he had scarcely placed his feet on American soil until he was branded as a slacker. It caused him untold anguish and while time and again it was believed that a spot had been found for him to give Chip a return fight the accusations caused the proposed fight to be abandoned.

When the facts in the Darcy case come out there was a feeling of sorrow for him. However, Darcy was dead. He couldn't hear the nice things spoken and written of him. And if his spirit is hovering above Australia today he will see some of our boys, yes, possibly some boxers, too, who are Over There.

There are thousands of American boys there, yes, some from this city. Among the many thousands may be some likely to hear stories concerning Darcy's great fights from old men who saw him in action. Most of the boys in U. S. service there were not yet born or only a few years old when Darcy was at the height of his fistie ability.

While thinking of Darcy our mind also slips into New York City. We're thinking of the night that Bummy Davis fought Fritz Zivic and according to wire reports, sent Zivic to the floor from foul punching. Bummy was exonerated and banned. He went into the army and was sent, we have read, to the Philippines. Who knows? He might be one of the heroes on Bataan.

You can't kill off a man for one mistake. To err is human. Bummy was a tough boy in the ring. He knew prize-fighting was no pink tea affair and wanted to win. Who knows but that his rivalry, fired to raging heat, caused a misdirection of punches and they weren't delivered intentionally?

A few weeks ago we picked up a newspaper and pored through a story written by that excellent sports scribe, Joe Williams, whom we knew in Cleveland, years ago. In our opinion, Joe has written many masterpieces but none better understood than the story we read. In fact, after reading it once, we read it and truthfully, it left us dim-eyed.

Joe wrote of So and So going into the army and of So and So entering the navy. You see he was copying their names from postal cards which had been sent to him by boys in service. Finally he picked up the last card. It read: "Dear Dad: I'm shoving off. Have one on me." No wonder Joe's heart was in that story. You see folks, that last postal card was from his own son.

Relay Carnival Starts Friday

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—With three champion sprinters listed in different heats, a blazing final in the 100-yard special invitation dash was promised today for the Penn Relay Carnival at Franklin Field next Friday and Saturday.

Norwood Ewell, of Penn State, in the first heat; Bill Carter, of Pitt, in the second; and Moffat Storer, of Duke, in the third are the seeded entries. Ewell was favored on the basis of his victories in the N. C. A. A. and the I. C. 4A 400 and 220-yard championships.

Seeded in the 120-yard hurdle race at the relays are Thomas Todd, Virginia Indoor I. C. 4A king; Walter Hall, Tufts, and Francis McCaffrey, of Columbia. They'll run respectively in the first, second and third heats.

In any case this Derby most assuredly will be the most wide open race for the big prize of the blue-grass in years, and a most striking contrast to last year's running when Whirlaway was a moral lock and ran that way to set up a new record.

Any one of the starting field can take this one, although I still think the winner will be among Alsab

BASEBALL'S V FOR VICTORY

Managers Boudreau and Dykes

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Sports world melody in short measure:

Here's a bit of news that should cheer the Sylvan Heights course clientele: Moguls are drafting a plan designed to prevent par chasers from losing the precious white pellets. Manager Sam Haycock, asked for a comment, said today that "some of the hazards will be eliminated, for one thing."

New Castle high's 1942 track team, which promises to be a corker, gets its initial taste of competition on Saturday afternoon at Warren, Ohio, meeting Warren high. The local thunders will be seeking revenge for that still remembered football setback last fall. On April 28, the local gravel grinders compete in the annual Connelville relay.

In addition to being a reverent roller, Coach Phil H. Brudenbaugh is a devout horseback rider. He keeps his nose to the grindstone. "Bill" Paradise, the classy high school runner, will undoubtedly develop into one of the greatest track stars in the annals of the school before graduation time.

Besides ranking as the high school's No. 1 athlete, by virtue of participating brilliantly in football, basketball and track, Bobby Lee is probably one of the greatest students earning a few nickels after school.

FAIR or FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

Requested, With Regards, Sun Again and Bless Me.

Other leading contenders include Sonny Chance, Devil Diver, Shut Out, Buckskin, and Apache, the latter to get a real test on the coming Saturday at Jamaica.

You can pay your money on the barrel head and take your choice for better or worse from here on out, with 150 originally nominated, and of 100 still potential starters, and any one from an ultimate field of a dozen or so capable of coming through this time because of the lack of a standout so far.

Last year it was Whirlaway, which won; the year previous Bimelech, which finished second to Gallant Fox; just prior to that Johnston which won, in 1938 Fighting Fox an also ran to Lawrin; in 1937 War Admiral, which won; in 1936 Brevity, second to Bold Venture and so on. There were standouts for those derbies, but on the basis of recent performances there won't be any this time, and one man's guess is going to be as good as another. As good a procedure as any may be to pick a good long shot and hope for the best, one like Gallant Fox which paid $35.20.

But don't be in any rush about this. Take your time, bud, you've got nearly two weeks and by that time Alsab may be back on top and breezing or completely out of contention with one of the others regarded as a virtual certainty.

And anyhow nothing is official as to starts until the day before the race. That's when you know just which of the owners figure they have some kind of a chance. That's when the entries—the final names—are run through the box and after that none of them can enhance or detract from their records.

The next start is the Derby itself and not some conditioner here, there or elsewhere.

P. S.—Don't give up on Alsab yet.

Legion Junior League To Meet

Organization Expected To Be Completed At Meeting Friday Evening

Earl C. Moffatt, chairman of the baseball committee for the American Legion, Perry S. Gaston Post, announced today that an important meeting for all team captains, managers, and sponsors will take place on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Legion Home on North Jefferson street, when arrangements for the constitution of the league will be completed.

Eight teams were represented at the initial meeting. James Vessella of West Pittsburg, interested in Junior sports, will also be present and will assist in the organization work.

Freshman Mentor Oregon Grid Boss

(International News Service) EUGENE, Ore., April 21.—John Warren, freshman coach at the University of Oregon, took up duties today as head football coach, the third man to be named to the position in ten days.

He succeeds A. G. "Tex" Oliver and Vaughn Corley, both of whom entered the navy's fitness department. Oliver resigned April 11 and Corley, his former line coach, was named to take his place two days later.

Warren was elected over a field of prominent applicants and the choice was reported unanimous. The field of aspirants included such coaching greats as Tiny Thornhill, former Stanford mentor, and Jim Thorpe, famed Carlisle Indian athlete of the early 1900's.

Bowling Classic Closes On May 13

(International News Service) COLUMBUS, O., April 21.—Fall-stuff beer bowlers from Houston, Tex., today were hailed by the American Bowling Congress for their day's high 2909 in the five-man division, rolled last night.

The Hermann undertakers, of St. Louis, former match game champs, had trouble with the head pin and wound up with 2644.

Doubles honors went to Maurice Wellman and Edwin Schott, Indianapolis, who rolled 1239. John James, Erie, Pa., was high in the daily singles division with 633.

The tourney will last until May 13.

Bob Montgomery Defeats Peralta

Philadelphia Negro Climbs Back Into Fistic Spotlight With Easy Win

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—Bob Montgomery, 137 1-4, Philadelphia negro, climbed back into the fistic spotlight today with a unanimous 10-round decision over Joe Peralta, 134 3-4, Mexican lightweight before 6500 fans at the arena.

Inactive since his loss to Sammy Angott last March 6, Montgomery virtually pounded the fight out of Peralta during the last eight rounds. The Mexican, who fights out of Tamaqua, won the first two frames on a split but couldn't stand up under body punishment.

Billy Morris, 147 1-2, Harrisburg, defeated Leo Pierre 144, New York, on a technical knockout at 127 of the fifth round Referee Spud Murphy stopped the bout when Morris began beating his opponent about the head almost at will.

Four Twirlers Nab 2 Triumphs

Joe Gordon, Of Yankees, Is Top Hitter, So Far; Goodman N. L. Leader

With the major league season rolling into its second week, four twirlers have already copped a pair of decisions.

In the National, Curt Davis, of Brooklyn, and Joe Beggs, Cincinnati's fireman, have notched two victories. In the opposite circuit, H. Newsome, of Boston, and James Bagby, of Cleveland, have added two triumphs apiece.

In the hitting department, Joe Gordon, of the Yankees, leads the field with a .455 mark, followed by teammate Bill Dickey with .429. In the National, Ival Goodman, of Cincinnati, occupies the top berth with an even 400 mark. Ted Williams, of the Red Sox, and Stan Spence, of Washington, are deadlocked for the runs batted in title, each with 10.

MARSHALL ARMY BOUND
NEW YORK.—Baseball men contend that only the Army can get Willard Marshall, youngster from Atlanta, out of the Giants' outfield. Marshall, single and free of dependents, may be called this Summer.

Sun Again May Compete Today

(International News Service) LEXINGTON, Ky., April 21.—Seeking his best candidate for the Kentucky Derby May 2, Ben Jones, trainer for Warren Wright, planned to send Sun Again to the post in the six-furlong Calumet handicap at Keeneland today.

If the Sun Teddy-Hug Again colt shows good form in the Calumet he probably will be entered in the derby trial, a mile recognized as a "test" for the derby. The trial will be held four days before the derby.

If Sun Again carries the Calumet Farm colors today it was regarded improbable that he will take up his nomination in the important mile-and-an-eighth Bluegrass stakes at Keeneland this Thursday. In this event the Bluegrass would become primarily a battle among Bless Me, Col. R. R. Bradley's lone derby hopeful, and Greentree stable's Devil Diver and Shut Out, both derby entrants.

Devil Diver won over Sun Again and Whirlaway, 1941 derby winner, in a Keeneland race last week, but a stirrup had broken under Sun Again's rider, impairing his chances. In a later race Sun Again was victorious. Bless Me ran fourth in his 1942 debut at the Bluegrass track.

Cubs Spatter Buccos Again

Pirates Hit Skids, 8 To 2; Brooklyn Trips Braves To Grab National Lead

INDIANS SHADE ST. LOUIS NINE

(International News Service)

All the Brooklyn Dodgers need to do from now on is to hold onto the position they occupy today—at the head of the National League parade. They swept into the lead yesterday on seven-hit pitching by Kirby Higbe, 22-game winner in Brooklyn's march to the flag last season, with the Boston Braves 2 to 2 victims.

Dolph Camilli paced the 11-hit attack on Tom Earley, Boston's starting pitcher, with his second homer of the season. The victory was Higbe's first of the year.

Bucs Knocked Off

The Braves previously had been tied for the lead. Pittsburgh's Pirates also were knocked out of their share of the three-way lead when the Chicago Cubs pounced on them for an 8 to 2 triumph, their second straight over Frankie Frisch's hirelings.

Jake Morry allowed only seven hits by the Bucs as his mates drove Max Butcher to the showers with a four-hit attack in the eighth, topped by Lou Suringer's triple.

Two Phillie home runs humbled the Giants 6 to 3. Danny Litwhiler belted the first in the third inning with Glossop following with a grand slam in the fourth. An error by Billy Jages set up the unearned runs off Glossop's bat.

Only those three were scheduled in the national. In the American league, the Boston Red Sox clung to the lead though defeated by Washington Senators, 10 to 4, in the first game of a doubleheader. The nightcap was postponed. Jack Wilson allowed only one earned run and five hits while the Senators were clouting Joe Dobson and Mike Ryba for 15 hits, including home runs by George Case and Bob Repass.

Rookie Harry Skelchey's two-run double in the first inning gave the Chicago White Sox and Johnny Rigney a 3 to 1 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Dizzy Trout was in the box for Detroit when Skelchey connected. Portly Al Smith made his first start of the season for Cleveland and turned in a 4 to 3 triumph over the St. Louis Browns. Smith permitted only six hits.

The New York-Philadelphia game was postponed.

Junior Members Of YWCA Plan Junior Membership Day

Girl Reserves To Have Special Programs On Saturday, April 25

When 347,000 fun-loving teen-age girls from Maine to Hawaii "join up" with the Young Women's Christian association there must be a good reason for it. So we set out to find out!

The answers we got were as many and as varied as the 347,000 junior members of local Young Women's Christian association, and just as interesting. But they all add up to one superimportant reason—the modern junior miss of 1942 is learning how to be an effective world citizen right here in her own Y.W.C.A., where youth and adults try to understand each other and where democracy really works. And that, they agree, is the real essence of junior membership in the Y.W.C.A.

All over this land of ours, Girl Reserves from big cities, little towns, farm communities, and all kinds of homes, have set aside a day for a nationwide observance of Y.W.C.A. Junior Membership Day, April 27. They are eagerly making plans to show Mr. and Mrs. United States just what it means to be a part of this great Christian fellowship in which youth and adults in 53 countries (as of May 1, 1940) are working side by side to make democracy their personal way of life.

Because these modern misses believe that world fellowship and democracy begin at home, they are learning to get along with their parents and friends (boys included)—in New Castle the NeCaHi Senior G.R.'s and Hi-Y's plan a party for April 24 in the Y's new auditorium through Y.W.C.A. conferences on family and social relations. They are becoming alert to local community problems by studying everything from fire prevention to housing projects. They are doing their bit toward building a world community with people.

Community service is one of their special interests. In club meetings and after school, local Girl Reserves bring cheer to people in the hospitals by making favors both at Christmas and Easter time for all the patients in both hospitals; they fold tuberculosis seals in the fall and distribute the posters, and clubs make financial contributions to the Community Chest and to the Red Cross. In service projects, vital to national defense they knit for the Red Cross, take courses in child care thereby freeing mothers for actually sharing in defense program, and a number of local clubs are helping fight the child labor curse that still exists in this nation by contributing to the National Child Labor committee. This committee works hard to combat this social disease that at present affects over 500,000 children in our country.

In summer, junior members of the Y. W. C. A. camps to achieve personal growth, gain new appreciation of the world around them, and develop their creative talents, and the skilled leadership of understanding counselors.

Mr. and Mrs. United States need have no fears for the Junior Misses of 1942. These Y. W. C. A. citizen-in-the-making will be ready to assume their full share of responsibility in the world of tomorrow!

An opinion poll is being taken in Girl Reserve club to be sent to our National Y. W. C. A. in New York. Questions concern the girls in relation to world events today.

Junior Membership Day is to be observed at the local Y. W. C. A. on Saturday, April 25.

A land of equality is one where any man of draft age may become an officer, provided he is a celebrity.

State's Fund For Unemployment Is About $232,000,000

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 21—The unemployment benefit reservoir totals approximately $232,000,000 with the addition of $1,125,205 by the federal government, the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment compensation announced today.

The money was paid by the federal government for use of Pennsylvania's share of the unemployment trust fund established in 1937 as a federal pool of employers' contributions paid by all states participating in the jobless benefit program.

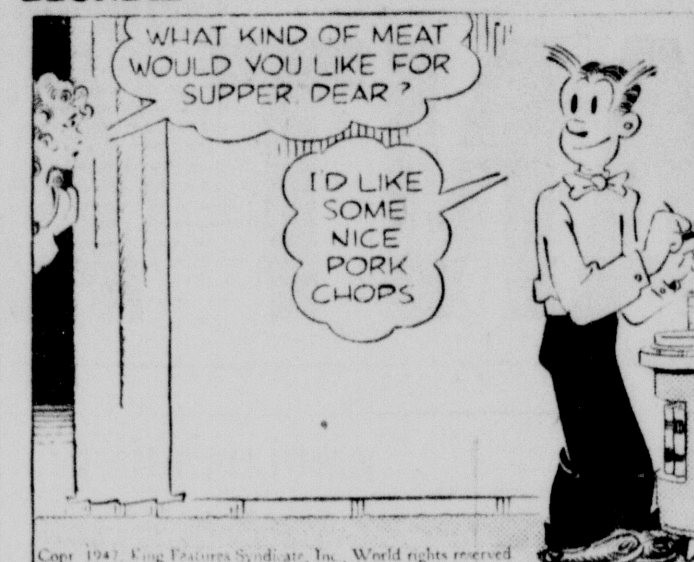

At the same time, Secretary of Labor and Industry Lewis G. Hines reported that benefits to unemployed workers spurred upward during the week ending April 11 for the first time in 14 weeks. Hines said that approximately 35,300 workers received benefits totaling $403,000 or an increase of $103,000 over the previous week.

Hundreds of unstamped letters were returned to civilians, who thought that the franking privilege applied to letters that were addressed to soldiers, said Postmaster Joseph F. Gallagher.

PHILADELPHIA, April 21—More than 5000 postage-free letters passed through the Philadelphia post office on the first day the "free-mail-for-service-men" law went into effect. Approximately 3000 of these were mailed from Philadelphia and 2000 were sent to this city.

Thousands of unstamped letters were returned to civilians, who thought that the franking privilege applied to letters that were addressed to soldiers, said Postmaster Joseph F. Gallagher.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEKALL

Days come and days go and the "little queen" on our house plays and grows. She is now at the stage where she delights in playing with the children in the neighborhood. . . a little young to understand all that they play but learning fast. . . new words every day and new ways of telling her parents off. . . and with all this change she is exposing herself to the measles. . . she and the other "little queens" and "little kings" of the block have been exposed, some will become sick, others will go along in the same way. . . But that is life and that is the life that we are fighting for here in the United States, life where our children can play with other children, play without fear of being driven from the street by storm troopers. . . Folks of this Nation, wake up, do everything in your power to win this war. . . Gather together all scrap iron and other old metal and rags and the like for the collection that is now in progress. Dig down and buy a War Bond. We must win this war. . . and we will, because you folks are built that way.

Some people like to have pets around. . . we do. . . we have a dog that we think is alright. Others prefer goats or maybe cats or some other animal life. . . but there is such a thing as carrying the idea too far. . . One household in a very fine community of our town has carried the idea of raising cats a mile too far. The place is over-run with cats. . . little cats, medium size cats and large full grown cats. Fifteen to twenty at a time. They have very high pitched voices and when they all get going at night, that is something you don't want to hear. These cats are permitted to run around the neighborhood, killing birds and scaring women. . . just what can be done we can't say. It has been reported to the officials but their warnings haven't done much good. Any good American who had any sense at all would realize what he was doing to the community and clean up the mess. . . but some people just don't give a d—.

United Nations Getting Air Superiority In Some Pacific Sections Now

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

FROM AN ADVANCED ALLIED BASE. Somewhere in the Pacific—There are various ways to cover the story of this war. You can sit comfortably in the big cities and take the communiques handouts. Everything is convenient and the communiques are handed to you reading something like this:

"Allied planes today scored a direct hit and three near-misses on a Japanese ship. All our planes returned safely."

The harder but more interesting technique is to go out where the pilots are working and meet them as they come in from their missions. You share your shaving tools with them and eat and talk and drink with them. But you get their own stories of the fights with the Japs. And that's why I am sitting tonight with Lieut. Duncan Seffern of Mahanua, Wis.; Lieut. Andrew Michael of Temple, Okla.; Lieut. Ralph Harkey and Lieut. George Barnhill of Charlotte, N. C.; and Lieut. Paul Ray of Tulsa, Okla.

Assure Folks At Home

First they want me to assure their folks that they are O. K. I can testify that they are in better condition than they have ever been. Lieutenants Seffern, Ray and Barnhill are content to have me tell their families that they are thinking of them constantly, but Harkey wants me to go into detail and tell his dad and mother and a certain girl named Anne to write to him.

Lieutenant Michael has a special message for his wife, whom he married only a month before leaving the United States. He worked for a spell on the phrasing, finally he said:

"Oh, just tell her I'm still nuts about her."

That seems to sum it up, and I'm sure Mrs. Michael will be satisfied.

While we are settling this Bill Henson drops in. He is a rare youngster who has just come in from a trip, and I sense a story. But he doesn't want to talk. Sometimes the boys are tired, and again they don't want to talk for fear of seeming boastful.

Finally I worm a little conversation about the war out of Lieutenant Harkey.

Looks Like Air Superiority
"It's beginning to look like we have superiority in the air over the Japs hereabouts," he said. "I don't know how long it will last, but it's mighty pleasant right now."

"Take our late mission, for example. We went out with our bombers and a flock of Japanese Zero fighters came up to argue, but we saw they were afraid to come too close because of the new stingers in our tails."

"When we had the old ships with a blind tail they used to come in from the rear and give us hell. But now they're more respectful. We have a big advantage now, with the heavier armament. The Japs are taking it easy."

"I've heard about the 'suicide pilots' who dive in on anything regardless, but I haven't seen any of them yet—and I've seen a lot of them. I haven't seen any of them deliberately crash their plane into a target."

"On this fight we were three bombers and we had a nice target. I can't say just what kind of a ship it was, but it was a big fat one. A large formation of Zeros came up and we had quite a time."

"Three of them peeled off and tackled my ship. One came too close and we brought it down with a burst from our rear gun. The others kept too far away to do any damage."

"We made a nice run over the target and dropped one bomb on the deck. I was navigating and I had time to see what happened. We made two more runs and dropped more bombs close to the ship."

"I saw her limping off with flames shooting up from her decks. Even if she didn't sink she certainly will never be in use again."

"Then we came home."

"And how about one more round before we turn in?"

Cavalrymen Are Asked To Dance Without Spurs

(International News Service)
FORT RILEY, Kan., April 21.—Spurs may form an essential part of a cavalryman's equipment when he is in the saddle, but they have no place on the dance floor.

That verdict was handed down by the patriotic young ladies who have been acting as dancing partners for the cavalrymen now undergoing their basic training at Fort Riley.

The girls said they would bravely tolerate heavy boots on their toes and resign these from the Texas Clog and Terre Haute hop to various versions of the Lindy Hop, but that spurs were too much of a sore point.

Hereafter the cavalrymen who wish to dance at the weekly get-togethers will have to leave their spurs home or else.

Car Rationing May Be Relaxed

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—Good news for the motorist came today with the prediction by Rolf Nugent, of the OPA's automobile rationing section, that new car rationing regulations will be relaxed within a week or ten days.

Distribution of new cars under the present set-up has gone to only 40 per cent of the quota, Nugent told the convention of the Pennsylvania Automobile Association. Defense workers especially, he said, need additional transportation facilities.

The federal prison at Atlanta, Georgia, is the largest one in the United States. It has about 3,000 inmates.

REGISTRATION NOT HEAVY

Despite numerous warnings, the last week of registration before the primary election on May 19, the total is not impressive one. It may be that most people are registered but lack of interest seems to account for a lot of it. During the past week 99 voters registered as Republicans, 50 as Democrats, from Democrat to Republican, 24. From Republican to Democrat, 21. On Saturday, the last day, 40 registered as Republican and 18 as Democrat. Transfers included 9 Democrats and 8 Republicans to Democrat.

The lists are now closed. No one can register, or change address or party affiliation before the primary election on May 19.

TO SCRAP SLOTS

Like everybody else District Attorney Leroy K. Donaldson wants to help in the scrap drive. His contribution to the total scrap collected in the county, the court permitting, will be a number of slot machines that were recently confiscated. After a sledge has been used on the machines they will be sold for scrap and the money turned into the county.
